ATTRACTIONS
EXTRAORDINARY.

Ladies' Suits and Cloaks.

125 imported Suits, $39 to $60; less than half original prices.

Over 1,000 imported and city-made Jackets from $5.98 to $47.50; averaging about 50 cents on the dollar of early prices.

250 imported Capes, in Velvet, Satin, and Cloth, at $13.75; worth $24.50.

500 city-made Capes at $5.75, $7.98, $10.98, $11.75, $13.75; all in the very latest styles, and pronounced bargains.

All our high Novelties in Paris and Berlin made Capes at $19.75 to $39; greatly below cost of importation.

Millinery Department.

TRIMMED HATS.

Will show this week a large and choice collection of Ladies' Street Hats, in new styles, all marked at very low prices.

STRAW GOODS.

Just received, a very large assortment of new Summer styles in Untrimmed Hats, in choice dress shapes; also desirable styles for Garden and Carriage Hats, in black and colors.

LEGHORN HATS.

3,500 dozen fine Leghorn Hats, all selected goods, made and finished in Italy expressly for us, and marked at specially low prices.

Special.—550 dozen large Leghorn Hats, in black and natural colors, at 29c each; worth 75c.

MILLINERY NOVELTIES.

We are positively showing the largest and most complete assortment of Millinery Novelties and Trimmings to be found in this country. Every possible article required to make and trim the choicest dress hat or bonnet can be found in this Department, and at prices usually charged by wholesale houses.

Lace Department.

There is not in this country such a complete and varied assortment of loom and hand made Laces as can now be seen in our Lace Department.

The products from the Lace looms of Europe within the past few years have revolutionized the Lace trade, placing within the reach of all copies of the most expensive Real Laces that are so marvelously exact as to challenge comparison with the hand-made originals. These copies of Old Laces are moderate in price, and can be obtained in graduated widths, and in various shades. In addition there are many new Laces that have been brought into existence through the aid of science and mechanism, which are both novel in character, beautiful in design, and graceful in application.

In Staple Laces our assortment is very large and prices particularly low.

Special.—All Silk Black Chantilly Laces, 6 inches wide, 12 1-2 yds. yard; worth 20c. 8 inches wide, 25c. yard; worth 37c.

Muslin Embroideries.

There is nothing so cool as a Nainsook Dress in Summer, not anything more genteel than black. Never have such values been offered before in Nainsook Flouncings, nor likely to be again. More than this, there is not another lot of high-grade Black Nainsook Flouncings in this country.

These goods measure 45 inches in width, are handsomely embroidered, have deep hemstitched borders, and are a fast black. The fabric is silk finished, and suitable for dresses and underskirts. We sell them in lengths of 4 1-2 yards at 59c. per yard, or $2.65 for the dress pattern; not one-fourth their original value.

TRINITY GUILD GIVES UP THE FIGHT.

A FAMOUS CHURCH CONTEST IN THE EPISCOPAL DIOCESE OF NEWARK.

For the first time in many months there will be no religious services in Trinit Hall, Rutherford, N. J., to-day, where, for nearly two years, Trinity Guild,
though under the ban of the authorities of the Diocese of Newark, has been carrying out the ritual of the Episcopal Church every Sunday. The Guild has announced the discontinuance of these services, and a Tribune reporter learned that the cause was resolved upon at a meeting of the Guild held at the residence of Major Richard Allison last Sunday afternoon.

Trinity Guild was organized in 1891, soon after a vestry election in Grace Church, Rutherford, where one of the bitterest contests in the history of the Diocese of Newark resulted in the defeat of the opponents of the rector, the Rev. Francis J. Clayton, by a vote of nearly two to one, extraordinary efforts being made on both sides to get out a full vote. On the announcement of the vote, amid the weeping of women and the most intense excitement, the rector's opponents left the church in a body, and with a few exceptions, they have not gone back, though expressing perfect willingness to do so if the rector was removed. Among the principal objections to Mr. Clayton were his inclination toward High Church usages and his introduction of various innovations in the service. The various organizations connected with the church—including the Ladies' Aid Society—were active factors in the fight.

As Bishop Thomas A. Starkey would not remove the rector of Grace Church, the seceders began to build up an opposing organization, the women leading by the formation of the Prudens Futuri Society, and the men following by the organization of Trinity Guild. The new organizations proved attractive to many Episcopalians and grew rapidly. By the fall of 1891 about eighty people were pledged to the new movement, and the Guild decided to hold public services on Sundays in the house of Engine Company
No. 2. At the first service the Rev. Francis J. Clayton sent two of his vestrymen to forbid the holding of Episcopal services within the parish outside of Grace Church without his permission, but his protest was merely read and laid aside, and the services, conducted by Professor Escher, a clergyman of the Reformed Episcopal Church, were continued. Professor Escher was succeeded by J.
W. Bessell, a lay reader, and recently the services have been conducted by P. H. Mason, an ex-vestry-man of Grace Church and the son of an Episcopal clergyman.

In the mean time ceaseless efforts to obtain recognition from Bishop Starkey were made, always without avail. Bishop Potter, of New-York, was asked
